Student ratings of instruction

University-reported "Your Median" (1–5). Each point is one evaluated section; a hollow diamond marks the median across sections.

Scale: 1 = Strongly Disagree; 2 = Disagree; 3 = Neutral; 4 = Agree; 5 = Strongly Agree. N/A excluded.

Selected student comments

Overall impact

"This was the most helpful discussion section I have had at this university."

International Finance – Winter 2025 – PDF p. 11

Clarity and intellectual curiosity

"Brian was extremely helpful in explaining things in the clearest way possible. He also went above and beyond when answering my questions and offered things to look into outside of the material taught in class that might interest me."

Principles of Economics II – Winter 2023 – PDF p. 34

Preparation and accessibility

"His discussion sections were very well done and helped with understanding the materials. Brian was eager to support students and was easily available for office hours and course help."

Connecting economic ideas

"I really appreciated how he would include and explain economic connections between our current material and material that we would encounter in the future if we pursued an Economics major."

Principles of Economics II – Winter 2023 – PDF p. 34

Complementing lectures

"Brian is a very helpful GSI and explains the course material very well. His sections or discussions complement the lectures very well."

Applied Macroeconomics – Winter 2024 – PDF p. 25

Support and academic mentoring

"Brian is always willing to help students with coursework and academic issues, prepared for sessions and open to discussion."

Quantitative Methods – Fall 2023 – PDF p. 31

Source and methodology. University of Michigan instructor reports, Fall 2022–Winter 2026. 15 sections (131 responses from 391 enrolled students). Each small point shows the university-reported median for an instructor-specific question; the diamond shows the unweighted median of these 15 section medians. Six comments are contiguous verbatim excerpts, traceable by PDF page. Course-level scores are not attributed solely to the GSI.

Only went to the first section of the semester and never again. It was at 10am on Fridays, though, so can you really blame me? I'm not a bright–eyed Freshman anymore.
This was the most helpful discussion section I have had at this university. Brain explained material well and clarified a lot of the course material in discussion. Going to this discussion helped greatly in understanding course material. Brian gave great insights and extremely helpful instruction.
Great!! Examples were very useful and were explained clearly!
Great
Brian is one of the best and most helpful GSIs I've had a t UMich in an Econ class! He was always well prepared and very insightful regarding the topics/pset problems!
A little hard to follow at times but appreciate his dedication to helping students and making the classroom a safe place

Sometimes the calculation pace is too fast for students to keep up with their note–taking, which is the only minor drawback.

Brian is a very helpful GSI and explains the course material very well. His sections or discussions complement the lectures very well.
Brian is a good GSI and very helpful in explaining details of class materials. I think the discussion is perfect if talking about the explanation of class contents instead of new things.

Brian did a great job with the discussion section this semester! I really appreciated how he would include and explain economic connections between our current material and material that we would encounter in the future if we pursued an Economics major. I think that once he gains a little more confidence in what he's teaching to the class, he would be a star GSI.
N/A
The discussion sections were math heavy and my understanding of calc 1 and 2 aided in my understanding. For those without that background I could see why discussion sections could seem difficult to understand. On occasion I noticed that the practice exam questions discussed during discussion section both had different answers which led to some confusion.
Good class, thanks for the help.
I like him, he always explained to me whichever question i had
Brian was extremely helpful in explaining things in the clearest way possible. He also went above and beyond when answering my questions and offered things to look into outside of the material taught in class that might interest me.
Got off topic often and taught things that weren't relevant

Brian was very attentive to students' needs
I attended the first class and Mr. Daza explained a specific topic incorrectly. To which it left many of us students questioning ourselves whether to trust what we were taught in lecture vs what the GSI said. I did not go to any more discussion sections.

I liked that we went over what was taught in the lecture by doing worksheets on the material; however, I felt the pace was a bit slow and that 1.5 hours was not needed for the discussion.
Enjoyed the discussions more than the lectures as they were more helpful in learning and with regard to the examinations.
I just overall found that I had to mostly increase my understanding of many of the topics on my own.
